

Lukuru Amisi Evaluations

AKC Approved Judge – Dale Simmons 9-6-08

This dog was immediately identifiable as a “Show Quality” Basenji male with hooded ears, wrinkling forehead, almond shaped eyes with dark rims, head held high on an arched neck, a high set tail held variously in a tight curl or more loosely over the back, smoothly muscular hindquarters with good angulation at stifle & hock, tight compact feet with arched toes. He moved smoothly and effortlessly with topline leveling out nicely. Table examination revealed a scissors bite with evenly aligned teeth and a correctly pliant skin with hard coat. His color appeared more fawn than chestnut red, although this may be changing with age as the hair along the back ridge to the tail is more chestnut reddish. He also appears more square built rather than high on leg, but this is within the range found in the competitive show rings.

Rating 4 Very Good

From a profile glance, to a fast moving view, this dog is obviously a Basenji. His type is very nice. He has a lovely head with lots of wrinkle. Ears could be set a little higher, but when alert, he shows them with a higher set appearance. He has nice cushion, proportioned headpiece, and almond eyes with good pigment. Nose leather appears to have lightened, but is fine. His sidegait allows one to see his excellent topline and high-set tail. His rear movement is great, while the front could be a bit more clean. Overall, I think this dog is high quality and would even do well in the show ring!

Rating 5 Excellent

Long-time Breeder -- Laurie Gregory 9-6-08

My first impression is that Amisi is definitely a Basenji. He has a solid, athletic build, close to the standard in height & weight. He is short coupled with moderate angulation front & rear. He has a deep brisket & his neck fits nicely into his shoulders. His tail set is high with a forward lean. Length of leg is typical, nice flexible pasterns. His gait is balanced with a level topline. He moves slightly wide in front. His head is typey – similar to early imports. He has fine wrinkle, dark eyes & mascara. Ears are wide set. His coat is very short, skin pliant. His white is appropriate to a basenji. Color could be darker red. Temperament was friendly & curious. He came right to me for petting & play.

Rating 4 Very Good
